

Making a change in the life of riverine species – removal of 300 barriers in northern Sweden

The Remibar project will restore streams by removing migratory barriers for fish and other aquatic animals in northern Sweden. By removing 300 migratory barriers in five large water systems, we strengthen biodiversity.

